Peel back layers of history as you wander the streets of this peaceful, other-worldly city on your walking tour. Start at the National Museum, housed in the former Royal Palace, for the perfect overview of Luang Prabang's fascinating history. Meet with a former cultural advisor to UNESCO, Francis Engelmann, who will become your expert guide to the city. Day 5: Elephant Sanctuary

Venture into the remote jungles of northern Laos for a private, up close and personal experience with Southeast Asia's gentle giants. Committed to conservation, education and elephant welfare, this ethical facility is a safe haven for rescued elephants who spend their days foraging in the forest, splashing in the river or munching on fresh fruits. Cross the Nam Khan river to feed the resident pachyderms, watch them bathe in the river and walk side by side with them through rice fields and meandering creeks. Stop for a picnic lunch in the forest and you can even take a quick dip in the nearby waterfall before getting to know the elephants better with a lesson in elephant movements and gestures.
