Nobis Hotel, Stockholm

The Nobis Hotel has become one of Stockholm's most popular hotels, located in the heart of Sweden's capital, close to the King's Garden and grand harbour front.

Housed in two 19th-century buildings overlooking Norrmalmstorg Square, the hotel retains a strong sense of history. The interiors offer a more laid-back Scandinavian style, minimal and subtle in design. Understated elegance continues into the 201 hotel rooms. Choose from Deluxe, Superior and Standard rooms, or opt for one of the luxurious suites. All rooms feature modern amenities, and views over the courtyard or city. We particularly love the Panorama Suite with its 180-degree city views and VIP entrance to the Café Opera nightclub.

The resident Chef de Cuisine, Isabella Morrone serves up Italian classics at Caina Restaurant while light Mediterranean snacks, such as paninis and stuzzichinis, can be enjoyed at the Bistro. Following dinner, immerse yourself in the vibrant hub of social activity at Gold Bar, where the resident mixologist serves chic cocktails surrounded by mirror-clad walls.

The Thief Hotel, Oslo

Arty hotel, The Thief is situated in Tjuvholmen, the new 'energetic heart' of Oslo, and a key centre for contemporary art.

Owned by an eccentric billionaire with a passion for art, the hotel oozes extravagance and glamour. You'll find unusual sculptures and works by Warhol and Gormley around the hotel; while room keys grant exclusive access to Astrup Fearnley Contemporary Art Museum, just a short distance from the hotel.

Opus XVI Hotel, Bergen

Music is never far away when you stay at the aptly named Opus XVI. The now-trendy former bank is owned by the descendants of Norwegian composer Edvard Grieg, famous for his work on Ibsen's Peer Gynt.

Here you will find 65 rooms and suites christened in honour of his compositions. Each of the suites are individually designed with modern interiors, and a subtle classic touch. The décor consists of muted colours, dark cabinetry and gold accents. Some rooms enjoy views towards Mount Fløyen while others look down over the quiet plaza of Vågsallmenningen.

Close to the coast, you can expect inventive seafood dishes in the delightful Restaurant XVI. The chef and his team are passionate about local ingredients and create a three- and five-course menu which includes everything from langoustine and monkfish to goats' cheese.

Just a short walk from this heritage hotel guests can find the famous fish market, the bustling pier and the Fløibanen funicular which travels high above the city and shows why Bergen is known as the 'capital of the fjords'.

Elva Hotel, Voss

This Scandi star is a designer hotel with a passion for gastronomy and nature.

The hotel is made up of one main building and five mini houses — each with two to three stylish, paired back suites. Picturesque windows in all overlook a tranquil lake and forested mountains. Every room is named after a cascading waterfall found along the nearby rivers.

While the call of the wild is never far away, it is the culinary experience that sets this boutique hotel apart. The fine dining restaurant follows the seasons and serves exquisite tasting and wine pairing inspired by local produce from the Voss and Westland region. Visit in autumn and you can expect a seven-course menu of pumpkin, baked tusk fish and wild mushrooms, while summer the cosy café and bar features barbecue Bratwurst from Voss Gardsslakteri and ratatouille.
