Venturing farther afield, you might opt for a rejuvenating soak in the scenic Sky Lagoon. Aug 12: Westman Islands | Shaped by Lava

Cruise amid the Icelandic Westman Islands and embark on an excursion to Heimaey, home to a former farming enclave forever changed by a volcanic eruption in 1973. Once ashore, you might opt to explore the lava fields and farmhouse ruins with your choice of an easy or more strenuous hike, followed by a visit to a local museum chronicling the site's legacy. Cruise onward for a Zodiac tour of Surtsey, a relatively new and starkly beautiful landmass formed by volcanic activity in the 1960s.

Aug 14: Faroe Islands, Denmark | Old Ways & Wild Vistas

Today, make landfall in Torshavn, the diminutive capital of the Faroe Islands. Though part of the Kingdom of Denmark, the Faroes are a fiercely independent, self-governing archipelago of 18 rocky, volcanic islands. Here, you might opt for a walking tour of the city, its National Museum and a local brewery. Alternatively, explore the coastal and hillside villages of Hvalvik, Saksun and Gjogv, rugged island enclaves boasting thatched dwellings, rich histories and postcard vistas visiting a local farm. Or, head to the village of Vestmanna and board a boat for a birding tour of towering coastal cliffs harbouring thousands of puffins, fulmars and guillemots. Cap this excursion off with a scenic hike revealing hidden lakes, pristine waterfalls and stunning views of the islands beyond.

Aug 15: Shetland Islands, Scotland | Outpost of Lerwick

Cruise to Scotland's most northerly outpost, the Shetlands, and come ashore in the islands' only town, Lerwick. Wild and remote, the Shetland Islands harbour liberal doses of both Norse and Gaelic influences in their distinctive local culture. You might choose to explore this enchanting island enclave with a tour of its port town and a local brewery; a panoramic drive through the countryside and a stop at the Shetland Museum and Archives; or a coastal walk to the Broch of Clickimin, an imposing fortification dating to the Iron Age.

Aug 16: Shetland Islands | Wild Splendours of Noss

Continue to Noss, a remote Shetland Island enclave renowned for its spectacular seabird colonies, striking coastal cliffs, diverse marine mammals and sprawling wildflowers. Aug 17: Isle of Skye

Today, explore the mountain- and castle-crowned Isle of Skye. The second largest of Scotland's islands, Skye spans some 80 kilometres of misty moors, rugged mountains, pristine lochs and towering coastal cliffs. Come ashore in Portree, Skye's main port and the perfect staging point for the day's excursions. Opt for a walk amid Skye's Fairy Pools, atmospheric rock pools fed by mountain springs; a scenic drive to Dunvegan Castle, the oldest continuously inhabited castle in Scotland; or a tour and tasting at Talisker Distillery, a producer of whiskies renowned the world over.
